Ain & Bank Announces Hire of Catherine A. Thompson as Associate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1, 2021 – Ain & Bank is pleased to announce the hiring of Catherine A. Thompson as an associate. Ain & Bank is one of the top family practice firms in the country, specializing in divorce, property division, custody and support issues, business evaluation, business succession, related tax issues, and integrated solutions for wealth management and preservation. The firm also serves as general and civil litigation counsel to high net-worth clients and their businesses.

Previously, Thompson worked at an international law firm in Washington D.C., where she advised banks, fund managers, and investors on complex issues of U.S. federal financial regulation and negotiated terms for private equity and hedge fund formation projects. In particular, Thompson leveraged her academic training in international law and policy to focus her practice on structuring global impact investments and building integrated multi-jurisdictional solutions.

As an associate with Ain & Bank, she now focuses her practice on a range of complex and multi-jurisdictional family law matters including divorce, child custody and support, relocation, and wealth management.

“We are delighted to add Catherine to our team of highly talented, knowledgeable and hard-working lawyers,” said Sanford Ain, founder and principal of Ain & Bank. “Her background and work ethic are a great asset for our firm.”

Catherine graduated from the University of Virginia School of Law in 2018, where she was an articles editor for the Virginia Journal of International Law, a member of the Philip C. Jessup International Moot Court Team, and a regular volunteer with the Law Democrats. As an undergraduate, Thompson studied international relations and chaired the Student Judiciary at University of Maryland, College Park; she graduated magna cum laude in 2014.

Thompson travels extensively and has lived and worked in France, Thailand, Cambodia, and Quebec. She grew up in Columbia, Md., and currently resides in Silver Spring.
